

McNamaras Are Asked to Plead to Nineteen Charges of Murder Counsel for Defense Argues that Men Can Only Be Tried on Charge of Dynamiting Iron Works

Los Angeles, July 6.—Outwits of the defense thrown about John J. McNamara, secretary of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, and his brother, James, were reached today when both appeared before Judge Walter Hurd in the Supreme Court, and were asked to plead to nineteen charges of murder filed in connection with the blowing up of the Los Angeles Times, October 1, 1910. No pleas were entered.

John J. McNamara contended, through counsel, that he was extradited for dynamiting, in connection with an explosion in the Llewellyn Iron Works, and could not be tried on any charge unless the prosecution was willing to admit the crime of kidnapping. As to the Llewellyn Iron Works situation, he took the same position, contending that he could not be tried for conspiracy, which is the accusation, after being extradited for dynamiting. It also was set up that this was sworn to by members of the district attorney's office in order to obtain requisition for the arrest of the McNamaras in Indianapolis, where McNamara was arrested, held a false session of court.

The same counsel, acting for James McNamara, answering the murder charges, asked that the McNamaras be quashed giving thirty-five reasons. Many of them were trite.

Others alleged a bias on the part of the Grand Jury, malice on the part of the counsel, and abuse and intimidation of Grand Jury witnesses. The defense asked that it be allowed to examine the Grand Jury to determine their state of mind.

DISEASES DURING MONTH OF JUNE—69 SCARLET

Free From Typhoid Fever.
"It is gratifying to report that with the exception of scarlet fever the city is remarkably free from other contagious diseases, especially of typhoid fever, of which only one case is reported which was not a city case, but from the country. During the month two cases of smallpox occurred. The first an unvaccinated person came from Ontario and had contracted the disease there, or during his journey to Edmonton. Seven persons were exposed, all of whom were successfully vaccinated except one who failed to take. Of the seven this man alone contracted the disease, which was successfully treated. Cost During Past Year.
"That no more cases resulted is due to the prompt and efficient work of the acting health officers, Dr. Park and Collins.
Scavenging Satisfactory.
"The scavenging of our city under the management of the department appears to be satisfactorily carried out, as few complaints are made. The cost to the city for the past year for scavenging was $13,298, after deducting revenue, which is many thousands of dollars less than the cost for previous years under the contract system, though the ground covered is much greater owing to the growth of the city.
The reason has now arrived when the flies are becoming very numerous and we have the advice given freely in our public prints to 'beat the flies.' This advice is very timely but more ef-

WE RECOMMEND SWEDS ENDS HIS REMOVAL OF "PEN" LIFE WITH RAZOR

CITIZENS COMMITTEE RECEIVES FAVORABLE ANSWER FROM MINISTER OF INTERIOR

Giving assurance that he was in hearty accord with the object of the conference arranged by Mayor Armstrong of the King Edward Hotel yesterday afternoon, Hon. Frank Oliver, dominion minister of the interior, told a delegation of citizens that he would do everything possible to secure favorable action of the government on the request for a grant to aid substantially in the construction of the east end bridge, as for the removal of the Alberta penitentiary to a point outside the city limits.

Mayor Armstrong, Alderman Lumby, T. H. Wilson and J. J. Manson constituted the delegation that they had appointed to see Mr. Oliver at 5 o'clock. After a brief preliminary talk those present in behalf of the city presented the matter and urged that the removal of the penitentiary be advanced. In the opinion of the city representatives, the government should make a grant for the east end bridge, chief among which was that property owned by the government, and that the city should be allowed to complete the bridge, especially in view of the close proximity of the shooting range to an approach of the projected bridge. Mr. Oliver agreed with the delegation.

The proposition to remove the penitentiary was discussed briefly. Mr. Oliver gave the subject covering with the subject present. The local newspaper suggested that the matters covered in the interview receive the official endorsement of the city council, and that the city should be allowed to complete the bridge, especially in view of the close proximity of the shooting range to an approach of the projected bridge. Mr. Oliver agreed with the delegation.

AMUNDSEN TELLS STORY OF HIS EXPEDITION

long 16,000 miles' voyage was safely accomplished, and we were only one day out of our calculations. We had arrived a day too early.

The Building of "Franklin"

After having safely moored the vessel to the ice, we set off to find a suitable place for wintering. This did not take long. About 2 1/2 kilometers from the ship, at the foot of a ridge, well-protected from the southwest winds, we found an ideal place; and on Monday (Jan. 16) we began to unload our cargo. Two men at once set about the erection of the house, while the rest of the land party continued to bring up the building materials and provisions. With out 115 dogs we had drawn enough power, but it was of slow work getting the heavily laden sledges up to the site, which, at a height of 150 feet. But our dog-knowledge was of great use. It was a pleasant surprise to find that they are able to work with them. They are a clever animal from Greenland.

It is three weeks since we began the building of our station, and now everything is ready. The desolate, dry landscape has undergone a great change. The silence is broken. Where formerly only a solitary penguin, the tracks of a seal crossed the bright there now lies a whole village. Our solidly-built little house stands safe and secure, sunk four feet down in snow as hard as rock, and supported by haystacks on all sides. We have given it the name of Franklin. Its longitude is about 164 degrees W., its latitude 78 degrees 40 min. N., so that it is probably the most southerly human habitation. Round it are set up 15 tents large enough to accommodate 15 men each, for the use of the dogs and as storehouses for our provisions, coal, wood, clothing, etc. The principal food depot is about a kilometer from the station, and contains provisions sufficient for two years. Since we came here we have lived almost entirely on seal meat, and would not exchange seal steak for any fish in the world. There are great numbers of seals here, and we shall soon have preserved enough both for ourselves and all our dogs for the winter.

In a few days the Fram will be ready to leave us. ## Man Who Wrote "Home, Sweet Home" a Lonely Wanderer

The year 1911 is by no means so unimportant a year as it was in 1910, and this fact may partly explain why it has been selected as the centennial of doing home to the memory of Thomas Howard Payne, the author of "Home Sweet Home." It was about 120 years since he was born, and nearly thirty since his death, but just about a century ago he was a student at King's College, Schenectady, and it is at his old Alma Mater that the memorial to his name will be unveiled in a few days. It is amazing that his fellow-countrymen, and those who speak the language of his incomparable song, have so long postponed making this conventional recognition of Payne's name. No one will find fault with them for sitting upon a year rather barren in great anniversaries in which to salute his memory.

Without a Home

Few of the millions who have sung the great home song of the English-speaking peoples would suspect that the man who wrote those poignant verses never had a home of his own, that he lived as a wanderer, and died a stranger in a distant land. The incident is only made by the fact that one of the finest descriptions of mountain scenery ever penned was the work of a writer who wrote a nomination, Payne, an American by birth, and an Englishman by adoption, wrote "Home Sweet Home" in Paris. It was as a song for his opera, "Clari, the Maid of Milan," the music of which was composed by Sir Henry Rowland. Payne expected that the song would be in modern theatrical slang, a "hit," and he was not disappointed; for the song was immediately, and 100,000 copies were sold within a year from the night it was sung first by Miss Ellen Tree. The sale was marvellous for that day and proved that the public taste in the matter of popular songs is not always astray.

NoBLE Blood

Thomas Howard Payne came from American Puritan stock, his father's side, and from his mother he inherited noble English blood mingled with that of an Australian Jew. His father was a man of considerable education, and was at first a doctor, later a teacher, and finally an evangelist. His son, however, had a strong bent toward the stage, it seems plain enough that his father's newspaper and his son, although it was not until the bankrupt had overwhelmed Payne senior that he gave thought to becoming an actor. ### As a Day

The interview led to Coleman and some of his friends taking a keen interest in the boy whom they sent to Union College. He was not exactly a satisfactory student, since he was impatient of discipline. His academic course, therefore, was somewhat clouded, and there was no general regard when the collapse of his father's fortune made it necessary for him to leave college and seek to work. He closed the stage, and thanks to a very handsome presence, made an early success. Somewhat inflated by praise, Payne sought wider acquaintance with more or less success and made friendships with some very distinguished people. He returned to the United States after twenty years and was made the hero of a number of highly profitable benefit performances. By this time, however, he had realized that his talents were not chiefly histrionic, and also that play-writing alone, despite such a gem as "Home Sweet Home," would not yield him an income for his sumptuous requirements. He drifted into journalism, and was Washington his headquarters. He produced a high-class magazine, but nothing came of it, and eventually he was obliged to accept a consularship at Tunis.

Here his last few years were spent. When he died in April, 1892, he was attended by two Sisters of charity and a Mohammedan monk, and was buried in Africa, and it was more than thirty years before his countrymen knew of his lonely home and his remains in Oak Hill cemetery, Washington. A statue was erected to him at the spot, and the post-mortem recognition his countrymen have made him until the present day, is a tribute to his noble qualities memorial on Union College grounds.

It is reported that William H. Grant intended a revival of David Denness, Lloyd's comedy, "The Senator," next season. Mr. Grant first appeared in the part of Senator Hammett in this place in 1890.

WILL BRING THE PEOPLE TO CANADA

BIG STEAMSHIP COMPANIES ARE PREPARING TO BRING PEOPLE INTO THIS COUNTRY

London, July 8.—A pronounced change in the character of future immigration at the port of New York, is indicated by the preparations which are now being made by the large steamship companies to develop the Canadian trade. It seems not unlikely from the present outlook that before long Canada will be getting what is commonly called the cream of the European exodus while New York will have to content itself with the oft-classed less desirable human life from South Europe.

The Cunard line announces at an early date two notable new 18,000-ton liners, the Prætorius and the Lacania, for the Liverpool-Boston route. The same company has acquired the Thompson line between London and Canada, and it says it will raise the St. Lawrence route to be keeping with it to New York and Montreal. This is taken in shipping circles to mean an intention to build large new liners for the direct Canada trade. The Thompson line vessels acquired by the Cunard include the Gerona, now completing. She will be fitted to carry 1,500 passengers and 200 saloon passengers.

The White Star line, as is known, has some in the Canadian trade with two very large ships, the Laurentic and the Megantic, each of almost 15,000 tons. The Laurentic is being refitted for the St. Lawrence route. The Megantic will go into the Canadian service.

Statistics Prove Falling Off
In this connection it is significant to note that the emigration to New York from German ports has already fallen off very heavily, as witness the following figures for the first quarter of the last three years:

	1911	1910	1909
From Bremen	18,796	31,878	29,761
From Hamburg	22,518	24,518	22,572

Totals ..... 41,314, 56,396, 52,333
Thus there are increasing indications from various sources that much of the immigration of the sturdy populations are coming to go to the United States. South European continue to crowd into the western continent by way of ports that lie north of New York—Boston, Halifax, and the St. Lawrence route. It is now well established by the official figures that the English and Canadian governments are generally developing the tide of immigration to the Canadian Dominion. The Canadian States it is only a matter of time when the American west will feel the change in the conditions. The North Europeans usually settle for good wherever they emigrate. South Europeans, on the other hand, are largely migratory. They do not take to farming, but they often go, by masses, into mining and railroad and public works construction, or they herd in the great Atlantic seaboard cities and engage in trade.

American Money Going Abroad
The North American recently noted that at least $335,000,000 a year is annually sent or taken from the United States to Europe by tourists or aliens. Most of the aliens in question are from South Europe. They cause every year a vast drain on the active cash capital of the United States.

The effect of a large diversion and development of Canadian immigration traffic was felt long by the railroads, especially in the matter of freight. Much of the agricultural product of Canada now goes to Europe by way of New York and Boston. When the movement goes out through the St. Lawrence, the port of New York it is likely, will feel it first, and then Boston may get its taste of the altered sea. The Hamburg-American company is building an oil-engine steamship of some 8,000 tons, and it turns out that the two big oil-engine ships under construction in England, and about which so much mystery has been made, are for the sea, the continent. Street Line Needed
On Residential Streets

Aside from the fact that it is never properly enforced, one of the most unfortunate features of the Edmonton building by-law is the fact that under it no proper street line is set in the residential districts of the city.

In most cities the building by-law tells the builder how close to the street he may build his house and keeps him to that line.

In Edmonton, however, builders build their houses where they choose, with the result that some of the best residential streets in the city have their sidewalks greatly marred by an ugly, barn-like structure jutting out to the sidewalk and shutting off the view of beautiful lawns on either side.

The Grandstander and
The Inevitable Penalty

There is a penalty which goes with being a grand stander that is unescapable. The penalty is that the public becomes nauseated and the grand stander and spotlighter inevitably become a target.

In his position as commissioner of the city of Edmonton, Mr. Bouillon has shown a wonderful penchant for grand stand plays. One of his first acts when he came to the city was to get himself interviewed and he has been getting himself interviewed as many times a day as he could find reporters to listen to him ever since.

Consequently, when Mr. Bouillon gets out and makes another grand stand play on the water question by claiming credit for a scheme originated by another long before the commissioner came to the city, and quite properly so, he knew where the city was situated on the map, the sympathy of the observer is unanimously with Mr. Candy when he says that Mr. Bouillon does not tell the truth.

The Eagles' Convention
For Edmonton in 1915

Ambitious though it may seem, the scheme of the local aerie of Eagles to get the Grand Aerie of the order for Edmonton in 1915 is not by any means as impossible as it looks, and if accomplished would be one of the greatest achievements in publicity ever accomplished for the city.

The Eagles are an order all of their own. They are, in a sense, different from the rest in the respect that their convention is one of the big features of Egleadom. Other fraternal societies have their conventions, but with almost all of them it is more or less a thing apart. With the Eagles it is the greatest event of the year. Thousands upon thousands of Special Trains from all parts of the continent take members to the gathering. United States cities go to great expense to secure the annual meet. Preparations on a gigantic scale are made for their reception, and in Frisco this year it is quite possible that ten thousand will attend.

To a society such as the Eagles, the invitation from Edmonton and head so far from the big cities like New York, Chicago, St. Louis or San Francisco and come away up to the top corner of the map would strike the man from New Orleans, Jacksonville, Memphis or Tallahassee, for instance, as a sort of a sporting proposition, and the uniqueness of crossing the zone to get to the convention city would be very likely to appeal very strongly to the members, to the vast majority of whom St. Louis is away out west and Chicago is far north.

Undoubtedly if there is any chance of getting the Eagle convention in 1915 or any other year Edmonton wants the convention.

Make the Census Complete

By Seeing that Your Own Name Is On

If there is any citizen of Edmonton who has been overlooked by the enumerators, it is his duty as a citizen to get on the census commissioner and have his name placed on the list.

With all due regard to the good intentions of those who are engaged in the work of census taking, it is quite possible that many have been missed. In a city such as Edmonton where many of the residents are roomers or tenters and who are consequently away from their domicile except at certain hours of the night, the taking of the census is particularly difficult, and it would be altogether surprising if some were not missed.

It is important for the city of Edmonton that the census be a full and complete count. Representation in the Dominion house is based on the census returns, and Edmonton aspires to have a representative for the city alone in the next Dominion house. From reports from Quebec it is evident that the unit of representation is going to be between thirty-five and forty thousand. To be entitled to a member it will be necessary that all Edmontonians are recorded.

A Local Application of The Tariff Boomerang

The conservatives declare that the tariff is the only bulwark which protects Canada's infant industries from destruction by the trusts of United States.

Yet the city of Edmonton has a large number of infant industries which are not helped but handicapped by the tariff.

Every bar of steel, every piece of leather, every bolt of cloth, every bag of cement, which is used in the industrial institutions of Edmonton is taxed before it gets to them.

When, for instance, the Edmonton iron works takes a contract to make plows for an Alberta inventor, it figures on a duty upon the steel which goes into the plows, upon the machinery with which the steel is fashioned, and upon paying wages which will be sufficient to allow the mechanics engaged to purchase garments at tariff prices.

When the overall factory just a block away makes overalls which it sells to the mechanics in the iron works, it does so with goods and thread on which a tariff is actually paid, or an amount equivalent to the tariff added to the price of the cloth before it gets to the factory. It uses machinery which has been taxed and it pays wages which make an allowance for the fact that this is a protectionist country.

And yet the conservatives would have us believe that by adding to the price which the farmer has to pay for the plow, and thereby reducing the number which it is possible for the farmers to buy, and consequently reducing the number of men engaged in the manufacture of the plows, it is protecting and increasing the market of the overall factory.

The man who really believes that by taxing a country with a protective tariff it can be made rich never walked a block in any industrial district with his eyes wide open.

 CORDS OF HIS DEPART-MENT SHOW THAT THE COMMISSIONER HAS HAD
 FREE HAND BUT DID NOTHING.

Commissioner Bouillon has been very busy for several days past trying to make it plain through the columns of the Journal, that the project for an up-river pumping station is an entirely new one, and that he is the man who originated it. When he takes the Journal through the door, he is a man with a mission, out to formulate a suitable and during municipal undertaking which only a brain such as his could conceive. There is no room for any credit for anyone else, for the project is all his.

At the same time he gives out an "interview" in which the whole tenor of his remarks is intended to show that the water superintendent is an inept, inefficient and unskillful official whose presence on the city payroll is a menace to the public interest.

In this case, however, Mr. Bouillon steps into a very bad hole, for the proof that the superintendent when he now holds, is really the originator of the up-river scheme is known to almost every citizen who has been three years in the city, and the files of the paper which is Mr. Bouillon's most ardent supporter bear testimony to the fact that the recommendations of the city engineer, and the project of the water works, were made by the superintendent, the seagoat of the city.

MacLean's water scheme is well known to almost everyone in the city. As long ago as August, 1908, Mr. Bouillon, in a public statement, recommended that the city commence at once on an up-river pumping plant, and in this recommendation he pointed out that unless this was undertaken at once expansion of the present plant on its present site would certainly lead to difficulties.

Mr. Bouillon, in his interview given in the Journal, expresses great satisfaction at having been given complete control of the situation with regard to the water plant, but as a matter of fact he had complete control during the entire term of his tenure of office and with the MacLean report before him might have commenced at any time to make the necessary arrangements to give the city good water.

MacLean's report and recommendation on this question was published in full in the Journal of August 18, 1908. To show just how outrageous Mr. Commissioner Bouillon's claim that he is the party to whom all credit is due for the inauguration of the scheme, the essential parts of the report, taken from the Journal of that date are here published in parallel columns with the Journal's front page story of Mr. Bouillon's four of exploration today for a water site and a complete part of the interview in which Bouillon undertakes to lay the blame on MacLean for the fifty cent of the water.

One interested enough to read the two can gather the whole story and get an insight into the manner in which civic employees are being treated by Bouillon.

The following is a sample of the stories being published in the Journal crediting Commissioner Bouillon with inaugurating the water scheme:

The first step towards getting the new water supply system plant here will be taken tomorrow morning. Commissioner Bouillon and City Engineer Latour will drive a few miles westward for the purpose of deciding on some suitable site for a proposed new plant.

This follows the action of the city commissioners a few weeks ago, when they empowered the utilities commissioner to confer with the superintendent of the waterworks department and the city engineer, then to bring in a report toward getting an adequate plant. The matter was brought up by Mr. Bouillon in a letter addressed to the commissioners, with the result that the above action was taken.

The following from an interview by Commissioner Bouillon published in the Journal shows how he tries to shift the blame onto other shoulders:

As the utilities commissioner went over different files of the report, occasionally making notes, a Journal reporter interrupted him.

"Why so happy, Commissioner?" asked the reporter.

Mr. Bouillon smiled: "You see it is this way. I am delighted to think I have at last been given a free hand to go ahead with the purification of the water for the people of Edmonton are asked to use. I would have brought the matter up sooner only I discovered that there was some carelessness being exercised at the time."

I was rather astonished that the superintendent of the water works would allow such an important item to escape him until his attention was so forcibly drawn to it, as he has been done today."

"But what is really the cause for so much dirt and sand getting into the water?" questioned the reporter.

"The principal cause is that the plant is entirely incapable of giving healthy water to the community. Particularly is that so when the water in the river is so bad as it has been for the past two weeks. Another thing, everything is very badly designed and constructed for a water plant. It is all but impossible to give good results with the present plant."

"There is a sedimentation basin which has been the subject of so many discussions and just completed last year. It has been impossible to get it into operation except to a limited extent. The arrangements are very poor."

Says Utilities Commissioner
 Is Playing to the Galleries

IS ACCUSED BY FELLOW COMMISSIONER OF MISREPRESENTING FACTS AND TRYING TO DISCREDIT SUBORDINATES—COM. BOUILLON'S LANE DEFENSE.

Apparently of lying, playing to the galleries and of resorting to reprehensible methods in the conduct of his office, especially with reference to the expenditure of money, the utilities commissioner Bouillon made a dramatic but equally lame defense at the meeting of the city commissioners yesterday. The session was scheduled for the usual routine business that comes before the board three or four times a week, but like a thunderbolt out of a clear sky, suddenly developed one of the most serious discussions ever heard in the council chamber. Mr. Bouillon charged Commissioner Candy with having slandered the superintendent of the waterworks while Mr. Candy insisted that the utilities commissioner acted dishonestly. Mr. Armstrong brought the debate to a climax when he defied Mr. Bouillon to discharge Superintendent McLean from the waterworks department.

Mr. Bouillon declared that Mr. Bouillon was not clothed with power to do anything of the kind. The meeting was adjourned after a session of four hours, with Mr. Bouillon at the beginning to the finish.

The discussion was precipitated by Commissioner Candy, who, soon after the session opened, said he desired to refer to a certain portion of the minutes of the meeting of July 27, during the absence of Mayor Armstrong. He recalled that Mr. Bouillon asked to do something of the kind. The meeting was adjourned after a session of four hours, with Mr. Bouillon at the beginning to the finish.

"I will not have it go out in the newspapers that I opposed anything of that sort," said Mr. Candy. "This is not the first week nor the first year that the water has been bad. Mr. Bouillon has been here for over a year and has had a free hand, so it was up to him to take action long ago if necessary. But he waited until action had been taken. Mr. Armstrong and myself, also the superintendent of waterworks, also the city engineer, and now Mr. Bouillon comes in and, I must say, makes a grandstand play, which I object to. It is childish. It is not business. We are here to do the best we can for the citizens of Edmonton, and we want to do it. Again I say I object to this grandstand play. I say that Mr. Bouillon is slating that which is not true when he says we harassed him and put any restraint on his actions whatever. All I want is the truth, and nothing but the truth. It is a small piece of business."

"Mr. Mayor, and I here to get a lecture or to do business?" inquired Mr. Bouillon, and his face grew red. Then, turning in the direction of Commissioner Candy, he said: "Now, under no circumstances will I permit you to say in a few minutes what you are. You have abused me."

"Complaisance of Treatment."

Mr. Candy replied that he had no desire to abuse anyone. Continuing, Mr. Bouillon continued to point out that he had received in the last six weeks.

"Have I interfered with you?" queried Mr. Candy.

"I have not said that," returned Commissioner Bouillon. "Anyway, I would not let you interfere."

At this juncture Stenographer Alfred produced the minutes of the board meeting of May 25, and read a paragraph stating that Mr. Bouillon had brought in a report concerning the condensing of water and that he was appointed to confer with the superintendent of the power plant and waterworks department. Mr. Candy remarked that he did not object to that.

"You do not seem to know the difference between water condensing and purifying it," said Commissioner Bouillon, addressing Mr. Candy once more. "A portion of the minutes of the commissioners' meeting of June 5 was also read, showing that Mr. Bouillon had submitted a report recommending steps be taken towards installing a new water system, and that the matter was referred to himself, the city engineer and superintendent of waterworks."

"Tried to Help Bouillon."

"I want to know the reason why he says that we opposed him," interposed Mr. Candy. "We have tried to help him in every possible way."

"When the gentleman gets through I will make an explanation," said Mr. Bouillon with some show of petulance. Commissioner Candy said he had finished, whereupon Mr. Bouillon repeated that he had finished.

"This is getting pretty near the limit. This man (naming Mr. Bouillon) has slandered me personally and publicly slanders me. The other day I inquired into the water situation and was troubled with the supply system."

Commissioner Candy interrupted him, saying: "If you are not through I will stop," complained the utilities commissioner. He named the superintendent Hoffman and McLean and City Engineer Latour were here the other day and this matter was brought up. I went into the water question and finally recommended that a permanent committee be appointed. I named a committee and Mr. Candy objected."

"Question of Veracity Raised."

"You must through Mr. Bouillon with a majestic wave of the hand."

"There was no objection," protested Commissioner Candy.

"Says Filter Is a Wreck."

"Well, I went down to the plant the next day," resumed Mr. Bouillon, "and I found that, which I did. Next morning I found the filter plant was not working. There was a superintendent sitting around and I learned from him that the filter had not been working for several days. The trouble does not lie with the pipes or pumping plant, but with the filter, and it has not been running because of incompetent operation. We discovered today that the manifolds are clogged with sand and dirt and I am allowed to fall into such disgraceful condition. The plant is practically a complete waste of money has been squandered there because of incompetency and neglect in."

"You have not explained yet," Mr. Bouillon, observed Commissioner Candy.

"Explanations Are in Order."

"Explain why you were put in here; tell the truth about it, too," was the response.

"I was appointed as a commissioner of this city," returned Mr. Candy. (Continued on Page Five.)

CONSERVATIVES
HOLD A MEETING

 DISTRICT MEET TO DISCUSS ORGANIZATION

At a meeting of Conservatives of the Edmonton federal district held last evening in the Craig Hall block initial steps were taken toward organization for a election campaign. The meeting was attended by delegates from different parts of the Edmonton district as well as by a large number of prominent Conservatives in the city.

Letters were read from eleven outlying districts in answer to enquiries as to the feasibility of organizing county bodies. In every instance the move was endorsed heartily. Five men were appointed to cover the ground in the district with a view of arousing the interest of Conservatives at large in the campaign.

It was decided to secure campaign literature and secure prominent political speakers to address public meetings which will be held from time to time.

The meeting was addressed by Messrs. J. Brown, late of Fort Saskatchewan, Major Garstman, W. H. Greig, J. R. Melville, La Riviere of Spirit River, Dr. Melhuus, G. W. Boulton, G. H. Bishop.

John McKillop, of Stoney Plain, G. J. Brown, of Jethro, Mr. Nicholson, of Grand River, Mr. McIlwain, of Laro, St. Anne, Bert Morgan, Mr. Benjamin, lately of Manitoba, J. J. Denham, William Henderson and A. W. Miller.

An organizing committee was appointed to cover the various wards of the city systematically.

NEW METHODIST MINISTER ARRIVES

WILL PREACH AT BOTH SERVICES
 AT METROPOLITAN METHODIST CHURCH TOMORROW

Strathcona, July 8.—This morning morning and evening in the Metropolitan Methodist church here tomorrow will be conducted by the new pastor, Rev. H. H. Leitch, Ph.D., who arrived from Port Perry this week to take charge of the work in Strathcona. Until their household effects arrive from the east Mr. and Mrs. Leitch will be the guests of Principal and Mrs. H. H. Leitch.

Mr. Leitch has had a very successful career in the work of the church. During the past three years he has been pastor of the Methodist church in Port Perry and prior to that held important pastorates at Belleville, Platen and Penning Falls. Different fields in his own conference were anxious to secure him, Leitch's services for the coming pastoral term but it fell fortunately to the lot of the Strathcona congregation to get his acceptance. Mrs. Leitch also comes here highly commended as a respected and accomplished woman and will assist materially in promoting the work in certain departments of the church.

Rev. H. E. Gordon, who recently resigned the ministry here is now living near the city in a suburban home and will engage in other work for a year.

In Italian factories and workshops more than three-fourths of the employees work ten to eleven hours a day.

TEACHERS THROUG SAN FRANCISCO

The business session of the city is decorated with flags and banners and signs holding the N. Y. A. welcome are displayed everywhere.

The first general session of the association, in the Greek theatre of the University of California, will be held until Monday afternoon, but the convention will be preceded tomorrow by meetings of standing committees, and several of the affiliated organizations. At the formal opening Monday afternoon addresses of welcome will be delivered by Governor Johnson, of California, Mayor McCarthy, of San Francisco, and President Wheeler, of the University of California. Responses from the visitors will be made by Dr. Elmer E. Brown, late United States commissioner of education, and who is soon to enter upon his new duties as chancellor of New York university; Mrs. Ella Page Young, of Chicago, president of the association; and president of the session and mayor the opening address. Dr. David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford Junior university, will give the annual address at the initial session.

Among the persons of prominence in the educational world who will be present are: the members of the executive committee, the members of the national council, which is vested with the power of recommending appointments and fixing the expenditure of funds. The so-called insurgents, who are progressive educators, and the expenditures have been recklessly and imprudently made.

it is a sedimentation basin that does not sediment.

"There is the filtration plant. That was put in just the full before and operated some three weeks after that when it was discovered to be all choked with dirt. Last year we discovered that it would not work and put it in proper shape. After that experience we came to operate the plant this year, and found it would not operate to its full capacity. Today it is almost impossible to operate it at all.

"Speaking of the water system and my efforts to better it, I will have to ask the people of Edmonton to have more patience for about a week or ten days, at which time everything will be as good as we can expect. We are to get water with no sand. Not clear water, but free from mud. So far as I can see, the water matter has been neglected, particularly during the past two years. The pumps are out of commission now, and will all have to be cleaned out."

"What is the reason they are out of commission?" the commissioner was asked.

"The only reason for that is they have been carelessly handled. They have been receiving no attention at all, but you may rest assured the matter is going to get the best of attention now, if not by the present incumbent by someone else who can and will give it attention.

"We are up against it, there is no doubt of that. I did not know just how bad it was until recently, for I considered that those in direct charge were looking after it. "While we are talking on the water system, I might say that in addition to a new water pumping plant, the city should have a reservoir of considerable capacity. At present it has none. If the pump stops for a minute the supply is cut off entirely."

have no strings on anybody, and no man has any strings on me. That is the truth.

Mr. Boulton went on to say that he was supposed to look for a site for the new plant, when Commissioner Candy interjected to ask if he was opposed. Commissioner Boulton admitted that he was not. Mr. Aear suggested that there was only this matter to settle at this meeting.

"And that is about your charging us with opposing 'Wednesday,' added Commissioner Aear.

"When these objections were raised the other day, I stated that I had not been given a free hand here," persisted Mr. Boulton.

"What objections?" pursued Commissioner Candy.

"If the gentleman will get through I will proceed," again protested Mr. Boulton. "I cannot make any statement with this man interrupting me. At that meeting I stated that for once I wanted a free hand, and that I had been interfered with since last September. Have I had a free hand in the purchase of machinery for the power plant?"

Boulton has been inconsistent.

"Your attitude in the machinery question," declared Mayor Armstrong, "has been one of the most inconsistent that I ever saw or heard of. You brought in a report recommending a 1200 k.w. machine at the power plant, and after we decided to purchase a 2000 k.w. machine, you brought in another report, which is down on your desk, stating that there would not be enough power to run it. You will also recall that last year the commissioners took up the matter of different officials running to the press. It was left with the mayor, and I notified heads of the various departments. You will remember that you were one of the most insistent that such an order should go into effect and yet ever since you have been continuously breaking into print. You gave an interview in a morning newspaper in which you practically state that you will fire a superintendent (referring to Superintendent McLean) want to tell you right now, Mr. Boulton, that you have not the power. The effect of your being appointed on a committee to confer with other members of the committee, then turn around and talk as you have about the superintendent of waterworks. There must be harmony if any good work is accomplished. Part of the matter is you have not a thing to do with firing him. This board will attend to such things. A man should present that kind of interviews going into the newspapers, and he would be almost justified in meeting you on the street and knocking your block off."

Boulton Substitutes.

Before the mayor finished, Mr. Boulton had resumed his seat. His only comment was that the mayor had made a "fine speech."

Just as Mayor Armstrong closed, the room of the room and stated that unless Nampyo avenue was opened up for traffic he would proceed in an action against the city for alleged ing, a plentiful supply to meet the growing needs of a growing city, and the necessity of purifying it beyond the zone of contamination and the installation of a filtration system, it must be admitted that both point to the necessity of moving the plant up the river.

The possibility of enlarging the plant at its present site is unfeasible, as has been previously pointed out, owing to its being within the contamination zone.

The city must decide, therefore, first, any addition to its water system so long as it remains at its present location, would be unwise.

The first step is removal, and this step must precede any expansion or expenditure on improvement. Another factor, and one which cannot be omitted in considering Edmonton's water supply of the near future, is the proximity of a community deriving their supply from the same source and facing the same problems of growth and increasing demands and the danger of contamination. Any future system of water supply adopted by Edmonton must be such as will save both communities the expense of installing a plant which will serve both communities, and which shall be jointly owned and operated in the interests of the two cities.

I would therefore recommend:

1. That the council appoint a committee of its members to meet with and confer with a committee of the Strathcona city council for the purpose of ascertaining a basis of agreement in which a scheme for a joint water supply might be framed.

2. That the scheme should involve the placing of the plant beyond the possibility of contamination.

3. That a sand and gravel filtration system with possibly a sedimentation basin in connection, be part of the system.

This I submit is the situation as far as the water supply of the city is concerned, and the recommendations which I believe should be carried out. Figures as to the economy to be effected by the cities of Strathcona and Edmonton by a single system instead of each installing one, can be submitted if desired. In the hope that you may give this communication your serious consideration, I remain, Sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant, ALEX. McLEAN, Superintendent of Waterworks.

Comrades, Mr. Livingston said he was a business man in that locality and had tolerated conditions down there as long as he intended to be mayor. He promised to take the matter up immediately and see what could be done.

The commissioners then adjourned until Monday afternoon.

CHILDREN CANNOT ATTEND THEATRES

BOARD OF HEALTH ADOPTS STRINGENT REGULATIONS TO PREVENT SPREAD OF FEVER

The juvenile element in Edmonton will have to forego a few pleasures so far as public amusements are concerned, pending abatement of the scarlet fever epidemic. Fearing that possibly some of the contagion was due to the attendance of children at places of amusement, the city board of health last night adopted the following resolution:

Resolved, That inasmuch as 75 per cent. of the cases of scarlet fever during the past month have been under 16 years of age, the board of health orders that all persons under this age shall be debarred from attendance at all theatres, picture shows and public gatherings.

Members of the board were of the opinion that it was advisable to present to the public every effort to stamp out the epidemic before the schools open in September.

RAILWAY VERY ACCOMMODATING

Strathcona, July 8.—Railways are commonly charged with being devoid of proper consideration for the travelling public, but the C.P.R. pulled off a beautiful little act yesterday morning that is appreciated by passengers coming here on the Winnipeg train. Some distance east of Weissawin a few freight cars of ballast piled themselves up night before last and the debris could not be cleared away in time to give the incoming Winnipeg daily a right of way. The train was complete, but the passengers were saved from a tedious delay on the prairie by the prompt action of the Calgary officials. When the midnight flyer reached Weisawin it was held until a special train was run out to the scene of the wreck and back, hiking in the eastern travelers and their baggage. The load was transferred to the midnight train and it arrived in Strathcona a trifle less than two hours behind scheduled time. Considerable property damage resulted, but no lives were lost in the freight wreck.

FAULTY MATERIAL SAYS CONTRACTOR

STRATHCONA MAN SAYS SPECIFI-CATIONS NOT CARRIED OUT ON POSTOFFICE BLDG.

Strathcona, July 8.—In a letter made public yesterday, a contractor of this city, Mr. R. P. McFarlane, says the charge that faulty material is being put in the post office building now under construction here, for the reason that the foundation is being built of a very dry quality of river gravel when the specifications call for crushed rock.

"I have been in the post office building "just after the late Mr. Garson told the contract that there was a lot of done by the foundation and they are still putting in the common river dirt."

Mr. McFarlane also says the Federal clerk of the work here, ex-Mr. W. C.
Gordon, for what he terms his negligence in superintending the work.

Specifying last night in a letter to the charges Mr. Gordon said that the construction is being carried along in an entirely satisfactory manner. Piqued and sours, the contractors of Hamilton, Ont., have handled many big undertakings for municipalities and the government during the past twenty-five years and all their work has been found satisfactory. Moreover, Mr. Gordon accuses, all the work on the post office to date has conformed entirely to the demands of the government authorities and that at the present time the government has full knowledge of the construction and progress being made on the building.

For the past week Mr. M. A. Pizzoli, senior member of the firm has been in the city and the foundation is not nearly completed. One of the junior members of the firm, R. B. Pizzoli, is in charge of the work and will remain here until the building is finished.

DUBLIN WELCOMES
THE KING AND QUEEN

The King and Queen, accompanied by their suites, arrived at Kingstown at a reasonable hour this morning on board the royal yacht Victoria and Albert. From the yacht they were rowed in the royal barge to Victoria wharf, where they were received by the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, the Earl of Aberdeen, and a number of officials. Immediately after the first ceremonies of welcome were concluded, their majesties, accompanied by the Lord Lieutenant and Countess of Aberdeen, at 3 o'clock the King officiated at the opening ceremonies of the Royal Gallery of Science. From the Royal Gallery of Science their majesties proceeded to Trinity college, where an address was read, to which the King made a reply. Later the royal party visited the Phoenix park race course, and the day's programme was concluded with a dinner party at Dublin castle.

The day's proceedings were not marred by any unpleasant incident, with the possible exception of the fact that the municipal government of Dublin did not enter as enthusiastically into the welcome of the royal visitors as might have been desired. On the other hand, the populace, reinforced by thousands of visitors from many parts of the island, were extremely cordial in their welcome. The grandstands erected in various places were crowded with cheering spectators, while the sidewalks were packed by a multitude of people.

Tomorrow morning their majesties will attend service in St. Patrick's cathedral. Afterward they will visit several of the hospitals and other public institutions of the city.

In the Netherlands the predominant hours of labor in most industries are ten to eleven hours per day.

WEATHER PREVENTS SUNDAY CONCERTS

BUT BAND WILL PLAY AT PARK WEEK FROM TOMORROW IF IT IS FINE.

Owing to the inclement weather last Sunday there was no band concert at the Exhibition park and the rain of last possible to hold one tomorrow. The grounds are very muddy and it is felt that until such time as the weather turns fine the concerts should be postponed. Should it be clear and warm one week from tomorrow the band will render a concert at the park, commencing at 3.30.

Following is the programme which was prepared for the concert tomorrow, but which has been postponed
